What's cooking this month?

Fiona's Store-cupboard Secret

With September comes the start of the British orchard fruit season. Apples, pears, plums, greengages and, my favourites, damsons, are either in season or will shortly be arriving. Damsons have a short season so you need to look out for them. The stones are big for the fruit they yield but they are worth persevering with because the flavour is fantastic. They need to be cooked with sugar as they are very tart and if used in puddings cook and puree them first. Use them in damson jam, jelly and cheese or mixed with a few plums in a crumble.

Take 500g damsons and cook with a little water and 100g sugar until soft. Sieve the damsons to get rid of the stones and let the

With the leaves falling and the nights drawing in, our thoughts have turned to our Autumn and Christmas programme. We have some great courses coming up over the next few months. Whether it is daytime or evening we have a lot of variety on offer. Sign up via the website, over the phone or in person. Also if you have signed up to see any of the Love Cooking (see below) celebrity chefs at the Playhouse Theatre on 12th October, be sure to come and say hello at our stand where we will be demonstrating general cooking techniques.

Hope to see you soon,

Carving Course - October 7th

Does the idea of carving the Christmas turkey fill you with horror? Are you baffled by the best way to carve a leg of lamb? Panic not! We have the answer. We have a few places left on our next evening carving course, which takes place on Thursday 7th October. On arrival we serve you with a glass of wine, which you can drink as we demonstrate how to carve various joints of meat and show you to sharpen and keep your knives sharp. After the demonstration you move to our dining room where a two course buffet dinner is served, which includes all the various meats you have seen carved along with traditional accompaniments. This is a sociable evening to come to either on your own or with a group of friends.

puree cool. Taste and add extra sugar if necessary
Whisk 600mls double cream until just holding a trail. Add the cold puree and whisk until thickened. Taste and add more sugar or a squeeze of lemon as necessary. Serve in individual glasses with shortbread.

Tip

Prick or slit the damsons before you cook them and then it is possible to scoop out some of the stones which makes sieving easier.
